Here Today, Golf Tomorrow

In Women's "sports" today, Jordan Baker has put her golf cleats and nine iron aside to pursue a side career in tennis. Since November last year, much controversy has stirred in question of Baker's honesty in playing golf, however no proof shows that the promising golfer cheated her way through the season. The young athlete played her first match against novice Mary Engle on Saturday afternoon at 2:00pm. The two duked it out for almost two hours. They tied each other at the second match with "love" "love." The third match was close but Engle began to tire quickly, and Baker held through to the end. Baker won her first professional match and moves up in the women's

Liberty Still Hold the Torch For Victory

In local news, Liberty High School's women's basketball team obliterated New Hampton High this past Friday (on February 16, 1929). New Hampton hosted the game on their court. The two teams faced off at 8:00pm for a two hour battle. Ruth Wheeler, of Liberty High, scored the first point and kept them coming with a total 18 points in the game. At her side was Babe Epperson with 12 assists and a whopping 14 rebounds. At half time, Liberty was up 22 points, 18 to 40. The star players began to tire, coach Bailey sent in the rookies for some "practice." Cecil White, a freshman, kept the team going with her lay-ups and three-pointers. The gap of points began to close in the fourth, but New Hampton didn't have enough time to catch up. Liberty High went home with a 16 point win over New Hampton. (Final 42-58)
